TREND ANALYSIS: CHAIN VOLUME MEASURES

The quarterly chain volume measure estimates the change in value after the direct effects of price changes have been eliminated, reflecting changes in volume. In the quarter to September 2020, Chain Volume Measures increased by 6.5 per cent, significantly up from negative 3.5 per cent in the pcp. Retail Turnover decreased by 2.0 per cent in the September 2020 quarter, slightly down from negative 1.2 per cent in the pcp. Retail Turnover is tracking behind Chain Volume Measures indicating that volume, possibly due to pent-up demand, is the main driver of growth.
